WEEKLY BRITISH COLONIST

PUBLISHED WEDNESDAY MORNING.

A Conscientious Parish Clerk.

The Whitehaven Herald publishes the following letter, which it says was actually sent to his incumbent by the clerk of a parish in the diocese of York, under circumstances which are sufficiently suggested in the document :-Dear Rev. Sir. I avail myself of the op portunity of troubling your honorwith these blunder up lines, which I hope you will excuse, which is the very senti-ments of your humble servant's heart. I ignorantly, rashly, but reluctantly gave warning to leave your highly respectable office and most amiable duty—of your most well-wished parish and place of my support. But, dear sir, I well know it was no fault of yours nor any of my most worthy parishioners. It was because I thought I was not sufficiently paid for interment of the silent dead. But will I be Judae and leave the house of my God, the place where his honor dwelleth, for a few pieces of silver! No! Will I be Peter, and deny myself of an office in his sanctuary, and cause me to weep bitterly? No! Can I be so unreasonable as to deny to ring the solemn toll that speaks the departure of a soul! No! Can I leave digging the ombs of my neighbors and acquaintances, which have many a time made me shudder and think of my mortality when I dig up the remains of som as I well know on you as minister of that Being that sitteth on you as minister of that Being that sitten between the cherubim, and that upon the wings of the wind? No! Can I leave the place where our most holy service nobly calls forth and says—and I being a married man—'Let no man put asund-r?' No! And can I leave that ordinance where you say 'Thus and thus I baptise thee in the name of the Father Son, and the Ray Chart, and thus become regenand the Holy Ghost, and thus become regen-erated and grated into the body of Jesus Christ? No! Can I think of leaving off cleaning the house of God in whith I take such a delight in looking down her aisles and beholding the sanctuary of the table of the Lord? No! And can I forsake taking a part in the thanksgiving of woman after birthchild, when times? No! And can Heave on which you well the congregation of the Lord, which you well know, sir, is my delight? No! And can I for-sake the table of the Lord at which I have feasted for, I should suppose, full thirty times, No! And dear sir, can I ever forsake you, who have ever been so kind to me? No! And I well will not intreat me to leave nor re n wife has been delivered these ten No! And can I leave off waiting on down and weep, and leave thee and my cource, and hang my harp upon the trees that grow therein? No! One thing have I desired of the Lord which I will require, even that I may dwell in the house of the Lord for ever, to behold the fair beauty of the Lord and to visit his temples; more to be desired by me than gold, yea, more than much fine gold, sweether to me than honey or the honeycomb.' Now.

When all employment becomes irksome and the mind incapable of continued application to any subject through wearings and exumention of the body; shan some health former, acting ratiy but surely upon the liver and attacks, and g adually increasing the force of the circ minds, and of the digestive system will be found to remove the difficulty. Such a medicione is DR. WAIKEN'S VEGETABLE VINGUA BITTERS, which in purifying the bleed removates the system giving it renewed vitality and force as of youth again.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AN PILLS, -- Throughout the year,

whether summer heats or wintry chills rule the atmo phere, these remedies are always applicable, and will never fail to eward those suffers who give a trial to their efflower. This dominent is invaluable for the relief of themany accidents which hopen to children; chairs, cuts, burns pimpies, and holls are instantly relieved and speedily on ed or it; all external inflammations, carbundes, writtows, sprains, and ery; lpolas are restrained in their paintin course by this colling argent and conducted to a thoough once. Assisted by the purfying powers of the Puls, Holloway's Olimmout works wonders in healing up old ulors, and effectually skins, ever those chronic spress on the legs which makes existence miserable. 41

phere these rmedies are always applicable, and will to me than honey or the noneycomo. Now, sir, this is the very desire of my heart to wait upon you which I hope you will find to be my delight, which hitherto has been, but I unthinkingly and rashly said I should no longer, for which I have rowred for the very disquietness of my heart. Now, if you think me worther warm typen you please tell, the church thy to wait upon you, please tell the church wardens all is reconciled; and if not, I will wardens all is reconciled; and if not, I will get me aw y into the wilderness and hide me in the clefts of the rocks. But still I hope to be your Gehazi and when I meet my Sunnamite say; All is well. And I will conclude my blunders with my oft-repeated prayer, 'Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Ghost; as it was in the beginning is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.' 'Now, I shall go on, with my fees the same as I found them and will make no more troughle about them, but I will not—I canno—leave you nor my delightful duties—Your most obedient servant, 'G. G.'

Steamer ONWARD,

Wednesday Morning, June 29, 1870. Wholesale corruption. Seldom or ever has the world been called to look upon such a hideous mass of wholesale corruption as has been of late exhibited in the commercial metropolis of the Great Republic. Not only must there be something rotten in the organization of the Government of New York, but in the public opinion upon which the administration of the system is presumed to rest. It would really seem that the spirit of corruption in itimost daring and practical form permeates every class of the body polite. Not only are the Judges and Representa tives of the State corrupt, but it would seem that the people who elect them either approve of corruption or a e en. tirely indifferent'to it, -regard the tab i g of bribes for decrees to facilitate plunder as ordinary and perfectly legitimate manifestations of self-interest, t be as much expected, in a world like this, as any other form of selfishness or hardness of heart, To such an extent have commercial eccentricities carried that if a man does not indulge in the spirit of the time in one form he is expected to do so in another. 'No, that k you, I don't smoke, said Admiral Farragut to a smoking Bishop; but, he added, by way of setting one peccadillo against another, 'I sometimes swear a little.' And so it would appear to be with the commercial couscience of New York. If a man does not receive a bribe he is presumed to give one. If he is not a gold-room 'buli' he is probably a 'bear.' If he does not smoke ten to one he sometimes swears a little.' One day we see the Ring absolute mas ers of the gold market, and therefore of the whole commercial capital of the country. The King is broken, but its chiefs come out the masters of the Eric Railway, still mitlionaires, still owners of the opera house and its appurtenant seductions. The fraud is to shocking, exposure so complete that the Press is compelled to come down upon the Ring, and luckless foreign shareholders in the Erie Railway make an attempt to recover conway make a attempted to the conding of their lost property. Mr Burt accordingly arrived in New York, provided with means which in any other country in the world would have coabled him at once to reorganize the rai way. But the Ring reorganize, take two members of the dominant party in the city into their circle, and thus safe from municipal interference, including city judges, they forthwith proceed to buy up the State, and the Legislature, in obedience to the Ring, pass Acts for the purpose of cutting shareholders off from all legal redress, and making the Rug immovable for five years. Such is a mere instance, a very imperfect glance; and the question of getting out of this gulf of corruption now presents itself to the thinking American. The best of them admit themselves hopeless of a change, except through the action of the Contral Government, the only power in the lard strong enough to grapple with such a gigantie evil, and which they hope is still beyond purchase. It is difficult to see a way out of the conclu ion that the popular conscience of the State has become more or less tainted with the leprosy. What is to cure a whole who, with their eyesopen, tolerate corruption in their own servants at their own cost; who, with a Puritan training, bear unjust judges; who, to take the most favorable of conscievable views, believing in their judges, believing in their members, believing all the charges false, eagerly support journalists capable of such monstrous lying? Their self-interest will not cure them, for their self-interest is slready on the side of honesty. They are not repudiating to avoid toxation, but suffering taxation that plunderers may floutish. Their patriotism will not cure them, for their patriotism never was more signally manifested than during the late war, and yet they are allowing the word 'American' attached to any security to depreciate it 30 or 40 per cent. Their leaders are not in fault, for they elect them. Their Press is not in fault, for it tries to rouse them. They have no excuse of an ignorance which may be excuse of an ignorance which may dissable to the property of marines sent out from the property of the propert ance is for all moral purposes complicity in a form of vice which no S are recorded in history has ever tolerated without experiencing its inevitable retr.bution-anarchy ending in one way or another in government from without. Turning of the Tide.

There would really appear to be no manner of well-grounded doubt that the tide of events is at length turning in favor of British Columbia, and we are more and more convinced every day that all that is needed in order to secure an immediate return to prosperity is a liberal and active policy on the part of the Government, combined with a little more self-reliant enterprise and vigorous effort on the part of the people. The statistical returns which we published the other day point towards such a conclusion; but, most of all, the grow. ing disposition to settle down to agricultural pursuits leads us to believe that brighter days are about to dawn upon the colony. We are happy to learn from the Government Land Office that ants are a number of families and individuals recently arrived from Canada and elsewhere. Amongst the passon-gers by the last steamer was a Canudian family of nine persons, who have come with the fixed purpose of making this colony their home, and who have by no means come empty-handed. Oth. rs have arrived from the same country within the past fortnight, with considerable means at their disposal, with a view to investing in this colony. Now, although this is a clean record. although this is a slow process by which to fill up the waste but fertile places, it is sure. We regard those, however. more in the light of the first drops which precede the shower, and Contederation, with the establishment of a line of British steamers between this colony and San Francisco and the inauguration of those public works which nast be the immediate result of the poitical change will constitute the lever which is to raze the wall that has so ong shut out population—open the windows for the shower. In all such matters, however, les both Government and people profit by past, dear-bough experience. We have all a disagree-We have all a disagreegreat waves of population rolled in upon hese shores, but only to rec de like the cean tide, scarcely leaving a sediment to mark its path. New York. June 28-The past week has been unu ually quiet so far as the Cape Horn lines are concerned. This apathy in trade is a forernmer of what is to come and which was predicted some time since. The present summer season will prove the dullest experienced since the California trade was thangurared. The rates show signs of weak-ness, notwithatanding vessels loading have been chartered or guaranteed at high figures. There are too many lines for the present wants. Steamer freights are up to the average, but rate lower. The steamer of the 22d inst took 300 tons for California. Overland freights are more active, owing to a reduction in rares; still the rates on many goods are above those asked by the steamers, and the latter continue to do a fair business.

The markets present little general activity and there appears to be a disposition on th part of responsible parties to engage in large speculative ventures; and current business is chiefly restricted to immediate traders.

EDITOR BRITISH COLONIST :- I am not saint, but on Sanday when I take my family to church I do not wish them impressed with the idea that Sanday is a holiday instead of a holyday by seeing a lot of figs hoisted over the town as it we were in some South Amerithe town as it we were in some South American place where the padres after non-time take their roosters under their arms down to a cock fight, or in a country where I can take mein frau, or anyone else? Now this flying of flags on Sungenerally. Now this flying of flags on Sun-day in this town is not in keeping with our nationality and I think should not be coun-tenanced. Letter from Cowichan.

From an Occasional Correspondent.

In an item 10 your paper, entitled 'School Matters at Cowiches,' it is said 'much dissatisfaction was expressed that non-residents were exempt from the school tax, a large proportion of the best lands in the district being held by speculators, &c.' I am aware of only six good lots held by speculators and one of them is rented to a party who occupies the land. Some of the worst land in Cowichen is held by speculators who have paid one pound stering per acre, and pay their road tax. 'The hard-working settler' should not covet his neighbor's property, as $960 has been visted Cowichan for school purposes, while Victoria only gets $480 From an Occasional Correspondent. inst for the purpose of forming a second school district to the scuth of Cowichan river so as to obtain the second grant of $480 (although there are only some half-dozen children over six years of age fit to go any distance on our rough trails), a tax of two dollars on each householder was voted, and then the parents—vell-to do settlers—voled the munificent tuition fee of two bits for each scholar per month. As Dominic Sampson would say, Pro-degeous! By this astonishing liberality they may collect $100 Sampson would say, Pro-degeous! By this astonishing liberality they may collect $100 per annum, including poll tax, and will attempt to wheedle the Government out of the grant. Why not put a sum in the Estimates to provide Chinamen and perambulators to take these large, two-bit souled people's children to school? In writing this I wish to show the fallacy of the dogma 'that it is the duty of the State undoubtedly to assist, and in this country it is a necessity, but the parent ought to feel that he is responsible and, to his umost ability, that it is his duty to educate his children. Here we have a liberal grant voted us by the Legislature, and the parents—although thriving settlers and some of them, comparatively speaking, wealthy—want to tax anything and everybody to raise the money necessary to obtain the Government grant, but are only willing to contribute two bits a month for comparative to the school of the contribute two bits a month for comparative to the same the contribute two bits a month for comparative to the same the forcement grant, but are only willing to contribute two bits a month for comparative to the same the school of the same than the sa

Our Special Delegate at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, June 3d, 1870. The papers this morning announce the arrival of the D legates at Toronto yesterday, and to-day they will probably reach this

At present I have but little to say in the matter of the delegation as it has as yet not become a subject of much discussion in this city. I will say, however, that so far as I observe, union with British Columbia is an acceptable thing in Ganada. I have had an opportunity of conversing with a few of the leading men in the Government, and, without an exception, there seems a strong desire for union and a seeming inclination to deal most liberally toward us, and with the ex-ception of two or three clauses in the terms, the conditions, no doubt, will be considered as reasonable. The 2d clause, fixing the population at 120,000, sec 13, defining the number of members and sec 15, occitioning the with opposition; and sec 15, occitioning the present form of government in British Columbia, will never be consented to without some strong and safe provision against its continued operation. The Government of the Dominion distinctly and decidedly objects to governing any colony from Ottawa. Bach Province, they say, must marage its own/local government. This is the rule laid own local government. This is the rule laid down and which has been acced upon in the case of Manitoba, to which new Province they have given an gettre responsible government.

The telegraph and press have given you all The telegraph and press have given you all the important and exerting news of the day. The Fenian raid has completely subsided with no other effect than that of proving the Fenians to be a pack of miserable cowards and giving Canada an opportunity of displaying her efficiency and alacrity in detending her borders from invasion by numbers infinitely more formidable than the second infinitely more formidable than the so-called Army of the Irisb Republic. The polit calchanges and appointments you probably also have been advised of. Adam G Archibald, of Nova Scotts, will go to Manitoba as Gov-ernor. Dr Tupper is expected to take the the office of R-ceiver General, to fill the the office of K-ceiver General, to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of Mr Kenny, to the Governorship of Neva Scotia. Other changes are expected to be made soon. Sir John A MacDonald is lying very sick. His recovery is considered some that Joubtful, and in case of his death Sir Geo. Cartier is looked upon as the Premier.

I may now say a word about the capital, Ottawa is of likelf a fine and prosperous city. Its population is 25,000 and increasing

Its, population is 25,000 and increasing rapidly. The buildings generally are of the most substantial character, being chiefly of a beautiful variegated limestone which is abundant and easily quarried. The Parliament outlings which are of this stone, are mag-nificent and would do credy as public buildings to any country; but the chief and most substantial feature of interest here most substantial feature of interest here are the mills and factories on the Chaudiere \mathbf{F}_c lie of the Ottawa river and situated just on the verge of the city. The quantity of lumber manufactured here is almost marvelous—not less than 200,0000,000 feet per annum. One mill alone, Mr Purdy's, cuts at the uniform rate of 250,000 per day. The at the uniform rate of 250 000 per day. The fumber from those mills is shipped to the United States, where it is met with a duty of $1 50 per M. Mr Eddy has a factory here for the supply of pails, tubs and matches, which has driven everything American of that stamp out of the markets of Capada. The e is a spirit of independence, both local and national, among the people of Ortawa, which it would be difficult to find among any other people. Confederation and consolidation of British North America has become a tallsman of inspiration to urge them come a talisman of inspiration to urge them on to independence and power.

I have something to write about the school system of the place, which I will reserve for another letter. To-morrow I intend to will the schools. visit the schools.

Mr Waddington is here working up his railroad scheme. He is quite as sanguine of success as he ever was. The old gentleman is dreadfully afflored with gout, with which he is now confined to his bed.

The Uxbridge Murder.

The terrible calendar of modern crim furnishes no parallel to this barbarous mur der at Uxbridge, England. We can scarce-ly match it by reterring even to that tale ly match it by referring even to that tale of horror which Edgar Poe has constructed on the theory of certain murders committed by a baboon. The slaughter of the Kinck family was executed with a weil-defined purpose and according to a pre-arranged method. The butchery of the Marshells in the English cottage was apparently the result of a deep-laid scheme of vengence, Once entered within the fatal circle, the murderer in this case had no alternative but to kill every human being in the house, and it is evident that no compunctions restrained him in his fearful work.

The scene of the murder was a neatly kept brick cottage, divided from a pleasant paid one pound stering per acre, and pay their road tax. 'The hard-working settler should not covet his neighbor's property, as $960 has been voted Cowichan for school purposes, while Victoria only gets $480 How much Cowichan deserves double I will endeavor to show. At another school meeting, held at Cowichan South on the 15th was arranged to come off on Tuesday, the endeavor to show. At another school meeting, held at Cowichan South on the 15th whose hous hold she was a member, was hard at work late on Saturday night beliant for the purpose of forming a second for school meeting held at Cowichan South on the 15th work late on Saturday night beliant for the purpose of forming a second for school meeting held at Cowichan South on the 15th work late on Saturday night beliant for the purpose of forming a second for school meeting held at Cowichan South on the 15th work late on Saturday night beliant for the purpose of forming a second for school meeting held at the school meeting h fore, so that he might better afford the time to assist at the marriage ceremony. Itseems probable that the smi by forge was kept glowing, and that the strong man was said intent on his labors when the gray dawn of Sanday morning begun to break, Probably while the finishing strokes of hislabor were resounding from the anvil, the door was solity pushed open, and an assawsin creeping up behind his viction snatched up a batchet and dealt him a savage blow on the back of the head. The stroke was not fatal, for there were marks on the earthen floor of a struggle which may have been short, but was intense in its energy and d spair. The murderer triumphed, and the work which was began with the hatchet was caded with a sledge hammer. Some strange and start-ling cry appears to have penetrated to the room of the wile sleeping within the cottage, for she was found with her gown hurriedly drawn over her night dress and bearing the marks of fatal blows which she had receiv-ed on the spot where she was met by the murderer of her husband as she was hurrying into the smithy. Another death-cry must have resounded through the house and aroused the young woman who was to have been a bride in two days more, but who was feil-d as she reached the bottom of the stair cessary to obtain the Government grant, but are only willing to contribute two bits a mouth for each child themselves. In a couple of years there will be children sufficient to make a good attendance and the parents alone will be able, if willing, to contribute the necessary amount to obtain the grant.

struck down both age and youth with wild and re-entless rage.

Such is the nearest approach to a probable narrative that oan be gleamed from the coattered details afforded by the testimony of those who f und the bodies and from the description of visitors to the spot. The murderer seems to have locked himself in with his victims, and with a fiendish determination to have proceeded, being the description to have proceeded. termination to have proceeded leisurely to hide the bodies from outside observation. After dressing himself in some of the clothes of the murdered man and taking his watch and chain, he quietly let himself out at a window and took the road to the neighboring town of heading. town of Feading, so late, it would appear, as 7 o'clock in the morning. The neighbors thought the smith and bls family had gone on a journey and the door was not broken in until Monday.

There can be very little doubt that this fearful crime was committed by a brother of poor Marshall, and that the motive was revenge Marshall had caused this brother to be sent to Australia about eighteen years ago on account of his dissolute mode of life. All this time the exile has been nursing his scheme of vengrance. It seems more like a scene out ol a seesation' play than a tragedy The man sent to Australia sudof real life. The man sent to Anstralia suddenly returns, and gradually makes his way through England to the village where his brother lived. Sometimes he was arrested by the Police as a tramp—sometimes he was lodged in jad for committing petty r. b. beries. But whatever happened to him the fierce flame of vengence never subsided in his heart. He pushed on until he saw the homestead of his brother, and then he began his worse than hellish work, having nix prohomestead of his brother, and then be began his worse than hellish work, having pity upon none but staining his coward hands with the blood of young and old in one common laughter. The passion of revenge is accountable for many terrible crimes, but for none more terrible than this. For eighteen long pears, 16,000 miles away from his home, this murderer had cherished his burner than the begans for warenesses. home, this murderer had cheristed his ouring desire for vengernee. His hour came and nothing less than the annihilation of an entire family would satisfy him. His nieces, his eister in-law, his own mother, brother and sister, all fell beneath his murderous axe
It is believed that no one is left alive who can identify him. When he was sent to Australia he was a lad of nineteen. He is now thirty-seven and there must be great changes in his abpearance. There is still a sister living and there is some slight probability that she will be able to identify him. In any case the wretch cannot escape the gallows. No 'political influence' will enable nim to cheat the law. The key of the murdered man's house has been traced to him, and he was arrested dressed in the murder ed man's clothes. Even the advocates for the abolition of capital punishment would probably find it hard to plead for mercy for this miscreant.
